Agency Overview

The NSW Department of Education serves the community by leading the provision of world-class education. The department protects young children by regulating preschool and long day care providers. Once children move into school, we provide them with a world-class primary and secondary education. We also work to advance the wellbeing of Aboriginal people.

Primary purpose of the role

School Psychologists apply their psychological expertise to support students to achieve cognitive, emotional, social, physical and spiritual wellbeing.

School Psychologists provide counselling and psychological assessment of students. They complement and enhance the work of teachers to strengthen student learning and wellbeing outcomes. School Psychologists provide psychological counselling services to allocated schools from Preschool to Year 12 across a range of metropolitan, rural and remote locations.

School Psychologists will not be required to teach or undertake teaching duties as defined by the Teacher Accreditation Act 2004 as amended.

Key accountabilities

- Apply psychological expertise to enhance and support the cognitive, emotional, social, physical and spiritual wellbeing of students
- Support the school leadership team to build and sustain a strong culture of wellbeing
- Provide counselling using evidence-based interventions to improve the wellbeing of students
- Undertake cognitive, emotional and behavioural assessment to contribute to the development of appropriate school-based support for students
- Work collaboratively with learning and support teams, parents and carers, and other agencies, to enhance learning and wellbeing outcomes for students
- Respond as part of a team to assist schools experiencing emergencies

Key challenges

- Work with a wide range of key stakeholders, including government and non-government agencies, to deliver timely, evidence-based and tailored psychological and counselling support to students who have additional learning and support needs
- Service a diverse range of students experiencing complexity across Preschool to Year 12, often from more than one school

Role dimensions

Decision making

The role requires school psychologists to work in accordance with relevant legislative requirements, policies, procedures and guidelines of the NSW Department of Education and the Psychology Board of Australia.

Sound decision making is achieved by assessing priorities, workload and in consultation with the School Principal and the District Guidance Officer/Senior Psychologist, Education as required.

Reporting line

School Psychologists work as part of a team and are professionally supervised by the District Guidance Officer/Senior Psychologist, Education.

School Psychologists are assigned to a base school and are administratively responsible to the principal. School Psychologists may also provide psychological counselling services to other NSW public schools. Where they provide a service to schools other than their base, they are responsible to those schools' respective principals for service planning and delivery.
